

Turning Investment Into Measurable Community Impact

Fahe is a regional housing and community development intermediary and Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) connecting capital, policy, and local leadership to expand opportunity across Appalachia.

Why Fahe Matters

Underserved, under-resourced, and rural communities in Appalachia face housing shortages, workforce instability, and capital access barriers. Fahe provides a proven system that moves investment efficiently into communities that need it most.

Communities We Serve

What Fahe Does

Supports a network of 50+ high-performing nonprofit housing organizations

Deploys public, philanthropic, and private capital

Builds scalable regional housing and community development solutions

Strengthens local implementation capacity

Proven Results

Since 1980, Fahe and its Members have:

Invested

$5 billion in Appalachian communities

Improved the lives of 1 million+ people across six states

And has built

trusted, locally driven housing
and economic solutions

Fahe is currently leading a Housing Can't Wait challenge to build, maintain, or finance 60,000 homes, mobilize $3 billion in new investment, and impact 1 million additional people by 2030.

What Makes Fahe Different

Investment-ready

Impact-driven

Scalable, measurable outcomes

Network-based implementation model

Rural housing & community development specialists

Learn more about how Fahe deploys capital and drives results: Fahe.org | HousingCantWait.org